Books

The God Port

Creatively written in the vernacular of the day, The God Port, by Wende Jones, uses computer technology as a contemporary illustration for effective communication with God. Wende points out the road blocks, hindrances, firewalls, etc. we so often experience and shows how we can break through to have lively, interactive, life giving communication with God, 24/7.

Speaker Bio for

Wende Jones

Wende Jones is a native Oregonian and has spent most of her life in the Pacific Northwest. She is the founder and CEO of Agile Northwest, a technology and innovation consulting company that focuses on building applications for the web and mobile devices. She is a Certified Management Consultant (CMC), a founding member of the Northwest Christian Chamber and serves on the Board, and is on the Board of Directors for Nehemiah Project International Ministries.

*Wende possesses a strong desire to see other business owners excel and build sustainable and profitable businesses. She is an accomplished speaker and business consultant and enjoys educating audiences on a variety of topics, including motivation, leadership, Christian entrepreneurship and communication. By relating topics in terms of the everyday technology we've become accustomed to, Wende is able to connect with audiences through insightful analogies in a unique and familiar way. She has been featured in several publications, including Charisma + Christian Life and The Portland Business Journal. In addition to her first book, The God Port, Wende's writing includes her blog (wendejones.com) and several articles on technology innovation.*

I have had the privilege of working with and hearing Wende Jones speak at many events over the course of the last several years and am always amazed at what I learn from her on many levels. Beyond being personally impressed with her skill as a speaker, having arranged for Wende to speak several times, I've collected feedback from those in attendance. I can assure you that the business owners who attend our meetings are always in agreement about the powerful yet comfortable style Wende brings to the podium, as well as the outstanding content that she always delivers. I highly recommend that you have her speak at your next meeting for a way to add value to any event you may have planned.

Turning Intellectual Capital into Intellectual Property

Thinking about how you think is something not often done. Explore what you know and discover how to turn that knowledge into properties and tools that can propel your business.

Win in Any Economy by Enhancing Client Relationships

Client acquisition requires a tremendous amount of time and investment. Keeping clients and enhancing relationships is the key to growth. This session is a macro view of how to retain clients and leverage them for your success.

Moving in More Power in the Marketplace

Having a clear focus on your business and career requires the ability to get past the noise that surrounds us. Learn how to open yourself to inspiration and freeing your spirit so that you can have a maximum impact.

Increasing Your Capacity

Maximizing every ounce of talent, intelligence and skill can open incredible doors both professionally and personally. Explore how to use ideas, skills and assets to open and expand your mind and heart to increase your capacity for success, leadership and growth.

Problem Solving "One Piece" at a Time

All problems can be solved the same as building a puzzle. At first there's just a pile of pieces. By organizing, sorting and putting a framework around them, the solution becomes increasingly easier to reach.

Opening the Communication Gateway

People have their own "firewalls" when it comes to communication. Learn how to remove these barriers for a more productive and smoother line of communication.

Communication Isn't a One-Way Street

Ever been caught in a one-way conversation where you can't get a word in? Maybe you were the one not allowing the other person in. Concepts for communicating on a 2-way street are shared in this insightful discussion.

Why Words Have No Meaning

I'll have it to you on Friday... To you that may mean you'll have it when you start your day. To someone else, it may mean by 5pm. Learn why words have no meaning and how you can get your message across more clearly.

How to Know What You Don't Know

In any interaction there are a myriad of things that are assumed. What you don't know can hurt you. In this session you'll pick up tools to find out how to know what you don't know.

The Human Behind Every Channel

There are multiple channels for delivering information. We often lose sight of the fact that behind every channel there is a human being. Technology, for all its advantages, can de-sensitize us to that fact. Learn how to keep the human factor in play.

Why You Need to Start In the Shallow End

Jumping into the pool in the deep end when you don't know how to swim is not the best way to learn. You may struggle your way to the edge of the pool, but you may also sink. The same goes for interacting with people. Go too fast and you could damage a relationship before it begins.

Communicating in 3D - Do You Have Your Glasses On?

Eye contact. Body language. Tone, tenor and words. There are three dimensions to communication that are essential to successfully connect. Learn how to get past the hurdles that technology presents to ensure you're communicating in 3D.

Are You Dialed In?

Everyone is unique and has their own way of doing things. Connecting with people on a level that's "within their frequency" can mean the difference between success and failure. Learn how to dial in to the people you interact with every day.

Are You Living Up To Your Promises?

We all make promises and commitments. Living up to them can be a real challenge in a world that seems to demand more and more of our time and energy. Explore your limits so that you won't be overpromising and under-delivering.

Finding the Zone and How to Stay There

In sports it's very easy to see when a player is "in the zone." How do they get that focus? When they get it, how do they keep it? Learn how to find the zone and how to stay there so that you'll be energized and a catalyst for those around you.
