

About the Author

Wende Jones is a native Oregonian and has spent most of her life in the Pacific Northwest. Wende is the founder and CEO of Agile Northwest a software development company that focuses on building applications for the web and mobile devices. She is a Certified Management Consultant (CMC) and a founding member of the Northwest Christian Chamber and serves on the Board.

With a strong desire to see other Christian business owners excel and build sustainable and profitable Kingdom businesses, Wende also serves on the Board of Directors for Nehemiah Project International Ministries. She is an accomplished speaker and business consultant and enjoys educating CEO's and other top executives on technology and innovation. She has been featured in several publications (including Charisma + Christian Life and The Portland Business Journal) and speaks to both Christian and secular groups, conferences and venues to encourage, edify and train employees, leaders and business owners for their marketplace mission field. In addition to The God Port, Wende's writing includes her blog (wendejones.com) and several articles on technology innovation.

The God Port

by Wende Jones

Enter the God Port and enter into the heart of God.

How do we communicate with God in a real, interactive way that allows us to not only express ourselves to Him but also to clearly hear Him?

Creatively written in the vernacular of the day, The God Port, by Wende Jones, attempts to answer this age old question. Using computer technology as a contemporary illustration for effective communication with God, Wende points out the road blocks, hindrances, firewalls, etc. we so often experience and shows how we can break through to have lively, interactive, life giving communication with God, 24 / 7.

The author draws insightful analogies and parallels from the World Wide Web. However, the life in the pages is the means to draw you into the heart of God and how to hear His voice clearly. For Wende, the goal is not just to hear God, but to experience the radical and passionate love that He has for each one of us.

So, if you long to know Him more closely than you currently do, prepare yourself to enter into a relationship that will heal and transform you in the deepest places of your inner self.

Don't hold back...enter into the God port and discover the place where you know His voice and experience all He has for you!
